Attending Veterinarian/Department Chair, East Carolina University

The Brody School of Medicine at East Carolina University is seeking an experienced, collegial laboratory animal veterinarian to lead the Department of Comparative Medicine as Chair. This individual will also serve as Attending Veterinarian for the fully AAALAC accredited, campus-wide animal care and use program.

Comparative Medicine is an academic basic science department within the Brody School of Medicine, comprised of 3 faculty and 25 staff. Comparative Medicine provides animal care for a variety of species housed in 6 facilities across campus. Other responsibilities include academic course instruction, clinical rotations, and investigator and staff training. The Chair is responsible for departmental fiscal operations, research support, and provision of excellent veterinary care and colony management. The Chair fosters interdepartmental collaboration among CM faculty and other departments.

The Attending Veterinarian is a critical component of assuring compliance with USDA, PHS, and AAALAC, International. The AV works closely with the Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee and partners with campus Biosafety, Environmental Health and Safety, the Occupational Health and Safety program, and Facilities Services to maintain the highest standards of animal care and use at ECU.

The successful candidate must have a DVM or equivalent degree from an AVMA accredited veterinary college (or its equivalent as defined by the AVMA Educational Commission for Foreign Veterinary Graduates), board certification by ACLAM or a related specialty. Preferred qualifications and expertise include at least 5-10 years’ experience, including clinical and surgical experience, facility operation, and IACUC service. Experience with ABSL3 management is a plus. Outstanding communication and interpersonal skills are essential.

East Carolina University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer and seeks to create an environment that fosters the recruitment and retention of a more diverse student body, faculty, staff and administration.
