The Center of Comparative Medicine and Pathology (CCMP), serving the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, Weill Cornell Medicine, and the Hospital for Special Surgery, is seeking a laboratory animal specialist to serve as a Senior Clinical Veterinarian (board certified) or Clinical Veterinarian. Responsibilities include the provision of clinical care to laboratory animals; oversight and participation in animal health monitoring, quarantine, rodent breeding, and surgical programs; IACUC membership and associated activities; and participation with other CCMP professional and senior management staff in programmatic development initiatives, education programs, and postdoctoral training in laboratory animal medicine and comparative pathology. Collaborative research opportunities are available and encouraged.

CCMP is responsible for the care of over 250,000 animals daily, housed in eight facilities in Manhattan and Westchester County in the NY metropolitan area as well as Doha, Qatar. Programs are centrally managed, AAALAC accredited, and supported by a multi-disciplinary diagnostic anatomic and clinical pathology laboratory. CCMP has a staff of more than 260, including 11 veterinarians (both ACLAM and ACVP board-certified). Individuals interested in joining a dynamic, academically oriented animal resource program with state-of-the-art facilities and technology, serving renowned institutions are encouraged to apply.

Candidates must possess a DVM/VMD from an AVMA accredited institution; have completed postdoctoral training in laboratory animal medicine or have four years of related experience; and be licensed to practice veterinary medicine in at least one state. ACLAM board eligibility or certification is highly desirable. Individuals that are board-certified in other specialties, e.g., internal medicine, surgery, anesthesia, or zoological medicine, with a strong interest in laboratory animal medicine are also encouraged to apply. Title and compensation will be commensurate with experience. The opportunity for an academic appointment is available to the qualified applicant.

Interested individuals should forward a letter of interest, curriculum vitae and the names of three references to: Neil S. Lipman, VMD, Center of Comparative Medicine and Pathology, 1275 York Avenue, Box 270, New York, NY 10065 or by e-mail to lipmann@mskcc.org.
